Community Advisory Policing Committee back on track for fall

Elk Point's Community Advisory Policing Committee is back on track, with raising their profile in the community high on the agenda at their first meeting of the new season last Wednesday.

The CAPC is a volunteer group made up of representatives from various walks of life — teens, seniors, oil industry, business, churches, RCMP, Town Council and the rural area — which meets every two months to bring forth safety and law enforcement concerns voiced by their groups. The CAPC then determines what they can do to help resolve these issues, whether it takes a letter to Town Council, a chat with the Chamber of Commerce or a school council, or referral to the RCMP for further investigation of the problem.

Everything from speeding in school zones and making u-turns on Main Street to rural and oilfield vandalism and the potential for seniors to be victimized by unscrupulous home renovators has been brought to the attention of the committee in the past, and many problems have been solved successfully.

This month, the committee welcomed two new members. Christopher Hancock and Bryce Sereda will represent F. G. Miller High School on the CAPC, and will bring any concerns from the student body to the meetings. Currently, they say, things are going well around the school and no problems have surfaced in the first few weeks of the school year.

Speed in school zones is a very real concern now that school is back in session, and Sgt. Peter Sherstan of Elk Point RCMP says the detachment has run some radar checks in the zones on 50th and 51st Streets. Most people are adhering to the 30 kilometer speed limit in these areas, at least during school hours. However, Sherstan is concerned that speed may not be reduced in playground areas and in residential areas where many children are playing.

He feels that a 30 kilometer speed limit for the entire town, other than Highway 41 and 50th Avenue, would be advantageous, "because there are kids everywhere."

The CAPC has undertaken an advertising campaign to promote safe driving in school and playground areas, and cooperated with the Elementary School and some of their students to create a mock accident scene near the school. RCMP Constable Simon Cote later gave these youngsters a tour of his police car, complete with demonstrations of flashing lights and siren, as thanks for their help in the project.

The CAPC will take part in tonight's Information Night, and invite you to stop by and meet the committee members and voice any concerns you may have.

LEARNING ABOUT LAW ENFORCEMENT from RCMP Cst. Simon Cote were Elk Point Elementary School students Adam Hymanyk (left), Paige Metz, Nicholas Metz, Brittany Buryn and Justyne Wozniak, who got a first hand look at the equipment inside Cote's police cruiser.

■ Trail Committee formed

Iron Horse Trail development progressing

The Elk Point Historical Society's Iron Horse Trail Committee is making progress toward making an all season recreational trail a reality.

The County of St. Paul, who own the former CNR trackage between Elk Point and Heinsburg, have already done considerable work, and are planning more in the near future. Division One councillor Allen Young told last week's Trail Committee meeting that washouts have been repaired, and that in a week to ten days "we'll have graders working along this end" where the trail is covered in deep gravel. "We'll see what's under there."

The County is also waiting to hear from landowners regarding steel gates which will be supplied at a good price to those needing to close off the section of track along their property. Barbed wire gates will no longer be permitted to cross the property, as of this fall.

The County has also indicated they will pass a bylaw prohibiting on-road vehicles from using the trail.

Signage is ready to be put in place, with the cooperation of Elk Point's snowmobile club, who are represented on the committee by Dale Rinas and Murray Cochrane. Rinas said the club will make sure the signs and gates are in place before winter arrives, so that the trail can be registered with the Alberta Snowmobile Association.

Cochrane added that the upgrading of the trail "has been a blessing. We'd been working on it on our own."

The committee has assigned duties to its various members, all of whom express great enthusiasm with the project.

Find out more about the Iron Horse Trail, learn about its route, and the recreational opportunities it will provide at Information Night tonight, 7 to 9 p.m. at the Elks Hall.

Chamber's new newsletter aimed at raising group's profile

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce will raise their profile in the business community with a once-monthly newsletter. The one-page, 'short read' publication will be faxed out to local member businesses to keep them abreast of not only upcoming meetings, but issues which are under discussion at Chamber meetings, future guest speakers and a list of upcoming events in the community. The Chamber will also welcome new visitors via the newsletter.

The newsletter will be produced by various member businesses on a rotational basis.

The Chamber is also planning a survey of residents to determine what additional businesses are required in Elk Point. The survey will be kicked off at the FCSS Information Night tonight, when those who stop at the Chamber table will be given a brief questionnaire to complete. Completed questionnaires will be put into the draw box for the Chamber's door prize.

The next Chamber of Commerce meeting is slated for tomorrow.

Information Night is tonight! Find out what's new!

Community groups, agencies preview their fall lineup of activities

By Deanna Easthope

FCSS Director

Can you believe today is Tuesday, September 15! And besides that, tonight at 7 pm at the Elks Hall is Information Night. Several community groups, clubs, organizations who operate in the community of Elk Point or who come to the community of Elk Point will be present. You will be able to talk to them and find out all about them. Most of them will be offering door prizes. So come one, come all to Information Night — tonight at the Elks Hall at 7 pm.

You know, sometimes it is easy to just say — nothing happens here — I'm going to go over to the next community or to the city. Why, that is where things happen!

That reminds me of a story. Ali Hafed, an ancient Persian, owned much land and many productive fields, with orchards and gardens, and had money out at interest. He had a lovely family and was "contented because he was wealthy, and wealthy because he was contented."

An old priest came to Ali Hafed and told him that if he had a diamond the size of his thumb, he could purchase a dozen farms like his. Ali Hafed said, "Will you tell me where I can find diamonds?"

The priest told him, "If you will find a river that runs through white sands, between high mountains, in those white sands you will always find diamonds." Said Ali Hafed, "I will go."

So he sold his farm, collected his money that was at interest, and left his family in the charge of a neighbor, and away he went in search of diamonds, travelling through many lands.

The man who purchased Ali Hafed's farm led his camel out into the garden to drink, and as the animal put his nose into the shallow waters, the farmer noticed a curious flash of light in the white sands of the stream. Reaching in, he pulled out a black stone containing a strange eye of light. Not long after, the same old priest came to visit Ali Hafed's successor and found that in the black stone was a diamond. As they rushed out into the garden and stirred up the white sands with their fingers, they came up with many more beautiful, valuable gems. Thus were discovered the diamond mines of Golconda, the most valuable diamond mines in the ancient world. Had Ali Hafed remained at home and dug in his own cellar or anywhere in his own fields rather than travelling in strange lands, he would have had acres of diamonds."

I like this story because I think it can be likened to where we live. There really are a lot of valuable "gems" in our community. In the groups, clubs and organizations, people in our community contribute their time and talents to help make our community life better. So come out to Information Night and find out more.

Town plans to pursue utility purchase

The Town of Elk Point Council and Elk Point Gas Ltd. have spent the last year discussing and reviewing the renewal of their franchise agreement which expired on November 9, 1997.

Town manager Myron Goyan said in a press release last Friday that "as of this date, the agreement has not been finalized, however, Elk Point Gas Ltd. has received offers to purchase from other companies and is seriously considering these offers."

Town Council wishes to announce to the citizens of Elk Point that, given the authority under the provisions of the Municipal Government Act, Council will also be exercising their rights to purchase the Gas Utility.

VIEWPOINTS

Give us a choice

On October 19, residents of Alberta will go to the polls to elect mayors, reeves and councillors for their cities, towns, villages and rural municipalities, and trustees for their school boards.

At least, most of us will... if we are given a choice.

We've seen it happen too many times, in elections and by-elections that too few candidates put forward their names to even fill out the slate, let alone to bring about an election. This arbitrarily gives us a municipal government that we might not have chosen, if we had done the choosing.

So far, we have been lucky. Virtually all of those who have served on our councils have had the interests of the municipality and its residents at heart. But what if they hadn't? What if they had only put their name forward to push through some hidden agenda of their own, and then persuaded their fellow councillors to go along with the idea? We could have ended up with massive debts and projects that turned into white elephants, at the ratepayers' expense.

The way to avoid this is to have enough candidates to choose from in the democratic process known as an election. And not just one extra name than enough to fill the council chairs... but several. This makes for a lively and interesting campaign, and allows the voters to determine who they feel will do the best job for the municipality and who will best represent their interests.

Otherwise, it's like hiring the first applicant for a job, without even conducting an interview. But unsuitable workers can be fired or laid off. Councillors can't.

Representing your municipality on council can be a rewarding job. It can also be frustrating, time consuming and require you to listen to a lot of problems that you maybe would rather not hear about. Still, it is a meaningful way to serve your community and help to guide it in the direction you feel it should grow... somewhat like being a parent. That is no doubt where the term, 'town fathers' came from. (Sorry, ladies — we are completely aware that 'town mothers' can do the job equally well, and do so in communities everywhere. In this day and age, the term should really be 'town parents'.)

Next Monday is Nomination Day. Maybe it's time to expand your parenting skills to include your municipality, and give the voters a choice when election day comes.

Questions answered about the FOIP Act in schools

Parents given guidelines for new act

As of September 1, 1998, the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (also known as FOIP) applies to school boards and charter schools in Alberta. For the last four years, the government says it has been working with school jurisdictions and education stakeholders to prepare for this extension.

The Alberta government says the FOIP Act will not dramatically change normal school activities and it will not prevent parents from participating in their children's education. It will allow parents and students broader rights of access to information and it will obligate schools to protect privacy.

The following are some of the questions that have been raised. The responses are provided to clarify matters for parents and students:

Can parents receive information on the performance of a school?

Yes. This is not a privacy issue, as the performance of individual students would not be released.

Can students mark each other's tests?

Yes. Allowing a student to mark another student's test would not necessarily be an unreasonable invasion of privacy. Group learning activities may also continue in the classroom.

Can parent volunteers mark student exams?

Yes. Schools should require volunteers to protect the privacy of the personal information volunteers have access to in the course of performing their volunteer duties. This does not prevent parents from volunteering at the school.

Can parents still take photographs at school concerts, graduations and sporting events?

Yes. At public events there is an expectation that photographs may be taken and this is not an unreasonable invasion of privacy.

Can schools celebrate their student achievements, such as honor rolls, scholarships and awards?

Yes. Achievements can be recognized within schools as part of regular school life.

Can parents find out how their children's marks compare to other students in the class?

Yes. Class averages may be provided. If required, parents may receive a list of other students' marks that excludes the names of the other students.

Can elected officials congratulate students on their accomplishments?

Yes, if the school has obtained consents to release names and addresses of students. Alternatively, elected officials can offer congratulations by including a letter in a grad kit, through the local media, by attending school ceremonies, etc.

Can the media publicize individual student achievements?

Yes, if the school has obtained the consent of the parent prior to disclosing the achievement to the media.

Can the media publicize school events?

Yes, schools can continue to determine and approve how the media participates in school events. At a public school event, there is an expectation that media coverage may take place.

Can students read their essays aloud in class?

Yes. The FOIP Act does not prevent students from reading their essays aloud in class.

Can students' grades and detentions be posted in the hallway or classroom?

Not always. Posting students' grades, detention and their names may be a breach of privacy. For example, in a Grade 1 class, a poster with student names and stickers for each book read by a student is entirely appropriate. Posting Math 30 exam results with the students' names in the hallway would be an invasion of privacy. Such marks should be provided in a way that respects privacy.

Can the names of those owing fees for instructional supplies, materials or transportation be posted in school?

No. This would be an invasion of the family's privacy as it may indicate their financial circumstances.

Can school year books include photographs of students?

Yes. Parents and students should be advised that class photos and photos of student activities may be used in the yearbook. Those who do not wish to participate should be able to exclude themselves from posed photographs.

Can schools provide students with photo i.d.'s, including birth dates?

Yes. These identification cards are in the custody of students. This is not a matter of disclosing personal information to other parties by the school, so it is not a breach of privacy.

Can schools provide students with lists of classmates for the purpose of sending St. Valentine's Day cards?

Yes. Teachers can provide students with the information they need to send St. Valentine's Day cards to classmates. In most cases, this will only be the first name of classmates. This would not be an unreasonable invasion of privacy.

Changing the Canadian Wheat Board

Producer-Control / Democracy / Accountability / Flexibility

A Big Change

This past June, the Parliament of Canada passed a new law to change the Canadian Wheat Board (CWB).

It makes the CWB more democratic, more accountable to farmers and more flexible.

Most importantly, it enshrines the basic principle of "producer control" over what the CWB does and does not do.

The linchpin in the new law is the creation of a modern Board of Directors for the CWB – for the first time in history!

There will be 15 Directors in total, and a controlling two-thirds majority of them (10 out of 15) will be elected by Prairie farmers.

The first elections are being held this fall. The new Directors will come into office before the end of 1998.

A Big Responsibility

The new Directors will not be just "advisors". All of the powers of the CWB will be vested in their hands.

The CWB today is one of the biggest grain marketing organizations in the world.

It is also Canada's 5th largest exporter.

It handles about 25 million tonnes of wheat and barley – worth up to $6 billion – every year, selling into 70 countries worldwide.

Since it markets only western Canadian grain, it can use the distinctive label "Product of Canada" as a powerful symbol of quality.

The CWB has earned a strong, global reputation for dependability, consistency, customer service and technical support.

A Big Opportunity

A Prairie-wide farm vote to elect the 10 new producer-Directors for the CWB is now getting underway.

To ensure complete fairness, a team of independent professionals (KPMG) has been hired to run these elections.

Voters lists will be published before the end of September.

The deadline for candidates to be nominated is October 1st.

Ballots will be mailed out to all eligible voters, beginning about October 12th.

For detailed election information, you can contact the Election Coordinator (KPMG) –

Alberta Power automatic meter reading is coming to Elk Point

Alberta Power Limited customers in Elk Point will soon reap the benefits of Power Plus™ — a new automatic meter reading (AMR) service. The new technology will improve technology by gradually eliminating estimated bills, helping to keep a lid on costs, and pinpointing power outages more quickly.

AMR sends electric meter readings over the power lines to a central computer, eliminating the need to read meters manually. Alberta Power is the first utility in Canada to use this technology.

"Automatic meter reading will provide three main benefits to our customers," says Rick Willis, District Supervisor. "First, customers will see their actual electricity consumption on their monthly bills within the first few months as AMR gradually does away with estimates."

"Second, what we save through AMR will help keep our costs low and our rates down," says Willis. The AMR system will pay for itself by eliminating the $3.5 million the company spends annually on manual meter reading. "There's no cost to our customers," he adds.

The third benefit will come when the system is completely installed. The new technology will allow Alberta Power to pinpoint power outages more accurately, restoring power faster — meaning less time in the dark for customers.

Service staff began installing 550 meters on September 14 in Elk Point and will continue over the next several weeks. The installation is part of a larger program that will see about 112,000 residential Alberta Power customers equipped with automatic meters by 2003. So far, more than 49,000 meters have been installed by the utility.

"Customers don't even have to be home when the meter is put in place," says Willis, "and their power will be interrupted for less than one minute."

Before installing the system, Alberta Power tested it with about 200 customers in Grande Prairie. The results of the two-year trial were excellent. The system provided accurate and reliable meter readings in extreme weather conditions, including temperatures as low as -40 C.

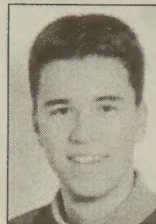

Using the AMR technology, Alberta Power can also provide cost-effective site monitoring to oil and gas companies.

* Did you know that an off-highway vehicle may not be operated in a public place unless it is equipped with the following equipment:

#1. At least one headlamp

mounted on the front of the off-highway vehicle (with a bulb of clear untinted glass), the headlamp(s) of the off-highway vehicle must be of sufficient intensity to reveal a person, thing or vehicle must be of sufficient intensity to reveal a person, thing or vehicle at a distance of not less than 60 metres from the front of the off-highway vehicle. (These headlamps must be aimed so that on a level surface the high intensity portion of the beam does not strike the eye of an approaching driver.)

#2. At least one tail lamp mounted on the rear of the vehicle (displaying a red light only) and both must be visible from distances not less than 60 metres from the back of the off-highway vehicle.

#3. Adequate muffler. This means an exhaust muffler consisting of a series of pipes or chambers that ensures that the exhaust gases from the engine are cooled and expelled without excessive noise, flame or sparks.

* Did you know that it is an offense to use an off-highway vehicle to tow any trailer, sleigh, cutter or other vehicle unless the hitch or attachment used is designed to control the vehicle being towed so that it will substantially follow in the tracks of the towing vehicle and is of sufficient strength to safely control the vehicle being towed and does not exceed 1.83 metres in length and prevents the towed vehicle from colliding with the towing vehicle in the case of a downhill travel or stop?

* Did you know that accidents resulting in injury, death or property damage to the extent of $1,000.00 or more are exactly the same as accidents with any other motor vehicle and must be reported to police?

Now that we have covered some of the common offenses relating to off-highway vehicles you may be asking yourself if the vehicle you are using is, in fact, an off-highway vehicle. Well the Off-Highway Vehicle Act of Alberta defines an off-highway vehicle to be "...any motorized vehicle designated for cross-country travel on land, water, snow, ice, marsh or swamp land or on other natural terrain and, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, includes (when designed for such travel): 4-wheel drive or low pressure tire vehicles, motorcycles and related 2-wheel vehicles, amphibious machines, all terrain vehicles (quads, tricycles), miniature motor vehicles, snow vehicles (snow machines), minibikes and any other means of transportation which is propelled by any power other than muscular power or wind, but does not include motor boats or other vehicles exempted from all the provisions of this Act by the regulations ..."

If you are unsure if your "vehicle" is classed as an off-highway vehicle or not contact either your local Motor Vehicle Branch or your local RCMP Detachment.

If even one of these points has come as a surprise to you, then maybe it's time to take another look at your off-highway vehicle and consider updating the way you use it or allow it to be used because as the owner you, personally, are responsible (and are chargeable) even if you are not the person operating it for any offenses or violations committed in respect of this Act.

what's NEWS at the LIBRARY?

Travel — and travel books — on our minds

...And we've heard from Michele!

By Karina Mitchell
Librarian

Maybe it has something to do with all the books, but it is no coincidence that Elk Point librarians have the urge to travel. First Michele took off for warmer climes and now, I am off as well, although I will be back in about three weeks.

On September 20th, I will be going to Germany for a vacation and to visit some family. It is a trip that has been planned for a long time and I can hardly believe that I will soon actually be there. There will be a replacement Librarian while I am gone to look after the Library. So keep on being the wonderful patrons that you are.

Since we are talking about wayward librarians, Michele sent an e-mail saying that she has arrived in the Bahamas and is settling in well. She is heading up the cataloguing at the College there and is moving into an apartment this week. She was not affected by Hurricane Bonnie, but she does have a bit of a sunburn. As we dig out our sweaters and warm coats, I'm sure all our sympathy goes out to her!

So in keeping with all this travelling talk, I have some new travel books at the Library to tell you about.

Fodor's '98 Mexico is a complete guide with city and country tours, resorts, ruins and much more, including information on where to stay and eat. Thorough, practical information both on and off the beaten path.

Whether you are planning a trip or just want to dream, Fodor's '98 France is your complete guide, with Paris walks, great chateaux and the best of every province. Includes 54 pages of maps.

With the Berlitz Basic French Kit, you can learn a new language step by step. By speaking aloud and repeating with the cassette, you will build an everyday working vocabulary.

In The Yukon, photojournalists Pat and Baiba Morrow pay tribute not only to the territory's remarkable natural history, but to the people that make it home. Breathtaking pictures make for a wonderful look at life in this spectacular landscape.

The Family Car Songbook is the perfect accompaniment for those long road trips. With songs like Greensleeves, My Darling Clementine and I Wish

I Were In Dixie, the whole family will find a favorite tune to make the journey more fun.

PLEDGE OF HOPE

The Marathon of Hope

In 1977 eighteen year old Terry Fox lost his leg to bone cancer. He was so affected by the suffering of other cancer patients that he decided to run across Canada to raise money for cancer research. During his Marathon of Hope in 1980 Terry ran an average of 26 miles a day for 143 days until he was forced to stop due to a return of cancer. He died in June 1981.

The Run Today - Worldwide

The Terry Fox Run has become the largest single-day fundraising event for cancer research in the world. Today over one million participants of all ages gather at an estimated 4,800 Run Sites in 60 countries around the world. Revenues have increased every year and in 1997 over $14 million was raised worldwide.

Thank You Alberta & N.W.T.

The citizens of Alberta and N.W.T. have contributed magnificently to The Terry Fox Run for the past 17 years. In 1997 you raised over $920,000. Through your efforts Terry's dream of finding a cure for cancer will be realized.

F. G. Miller High School golfers win first inter-school challenge

Six young men from F. G. Miller High School proved their golfing prowess in a recent challenge match held between teams from their school and Two Hills Secondary School.

GREAT ON THE GREENS -- Jon Yake, Darcy Stafford, Travis Brown, Spencer Easthope, Dustin Yaremkevich and Jordan Bassett won the inter-school challenge against Two Hills.

Darcy Stafford, Jon Yake, Jordan Bassett, Dustin Yaremkevich, Travis Brown and Spencer Easthope took part in the home-and-home series, in which the Elk Point and Two Hills golf courses allowed the visiting team to play at no cost.

Principal Jim Hawkins, who coached the FGM team along with Jeff Bishop, said "It was all match play — our number one golfer against their number one golfer, number two against number two, and so on — a real head to head competition."

The Two Hills team was coached by Phys. Ed teacher Curtis Paulichuk and principal Ron Rudkowski.

F. G. Miller won the first match 4 to 3 in Two Hills, then the second match 4 to 2 in Elk Point, for a total 8-5 victory.

■ Football time!

Big battles in the trenches

Down. Ready. Hut, hut, hut. Pop. Crunch. Crash. Bang. Oh! OK boys, that's all, everybody off, you OK down there? The sounds of fall. Football season. Watching the game on Friday night brought back memories of my own high school and college football days. Out of school early on game days, the bus rides, team jackets, big rumbles in the grandstands, cheerleaders. Those were the days!

Four guys from Elk Point are playing football in St. Paul for the Lions. Curtis Croteau, Peter Danyluk, Danny Wentworth and Jeremy Heraid are all member of the St. Paul Lions Football team. George Danyluk, who is too young to play this year, practices with the team and is their water boy.

The Lions won their season opener on Friday afternoon 8 to 7 over the visiting team from Fort McMurray. Lineman Curtis Croteau, playing in the trenches, was given the second offensive star of the game award. Not only did he play offensive guard, but he played defensive tackle, not leaving the field for the whole game. Not to bad for the tough kid, considering he only started playing football this year!

What else is happening in sports? Big week, this week! Hockey registration is happening on Wednesday and Thursday nights and all day Saturday at the A. G. Ross Arena. Registration forms are available at the schools, so have your son or daughter bring one home. Also on Thursday night minor hockey will have their first meeting, everyone is welcome to attend. And anyone interested in helping out with the insulating work at the arena can just stop by any night. Work bees are happening every night after supper and on Saturday and Sunday, so don't be shy, stop by and give it a try.

What's up for next week? Who knows? Maybe we will bring you some football stories from the good old days.
